

Online gambling in NSW

We surveyed over 10,000 people from across NSW about gambling. This was the first study of its kind in NSW since 2011.

The survey found that online gamblers:

- are more likely to be classified as problem gamblers* (4% compared with 2%)
- are more likely to be aged under 35
- are more likely to be male
- have higher income and education levels
- gamble more often

Race betting is the most common form of online gambling.

- Online race betting - 4.7%
- Online sports betting - 4.2%
- Online eSports betting - 0.5%
- Online casino games - 0.5%
- Online poker games - 0.3%

The survey looked at new and emerging forms of gambling, like eSports betting, fantasy sports, and gambling using something other than money, like 'skins' or virtual currencies. We found that these forms of gambling are relatively uncommon.

- 0.3% of NSW adults had bet on fantasy sports games
- 0.6% had bet on eSports events
- 1.9% participated in gambling style activities for something other than money
